PARK VICTIM IDENTIFIED AS WEST END MAN, 43

Police silent on reported 'Blackwater' coin; funeral home owner calls slain employee "a deacon"

By Marcus Webb, Staff Writer

The man found shot to death Monday night beside Lake Clara Meer in Piedmont Park was Lamar Whitlock, 43, of the West End, Atlanta police said at a brief news conference Tuesday evening.

Whitlock had two prior convictions for commercial gambling and one for receiving stolen property, according to state records. Silas Merriweather, owner of Merriweather & Sons Funeral Homes, said in a written statement that Whitlock was "a part-time driver, a deacon, and a beloved son of the West End," and that his firm would pay for the funeral.

Police would not confirm published reports, first aired by WBKG Channel 8, that the victim was found holding a black onyx coin associated with the criminal organization known as the Blackwater Syndicate. Deputy Chief Warren Hughes, speaking at the briefing, said only that "all avenues are being explored."

Chief Elxa Jackson did not appear at the briefing.

West End residents said Tuesday they feared the killing could reignite the wave of unexplained fires that struck Southside businesses last summer. "Everybody's holding their breath," said one restaurant worker on Ralph David Abernathy Boulevard, who asked not to be named. "Nobody wants another summer like that." (Continued on A6)

OLSON SWORN IN FOR 10TH TERM

Congresswoman, 44, is now among the longest-serving women in Georgia's history

By Deborah Kane, Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jasmine Donohue Olson (D-Ga.) took the oath of office Tuesday for her 10th consecutive term. She is the only member of the Georgia delegation first elected before the age of 30.

"Ten terms, and I still get butterflies," Olson told reporters in Statuary Hall. Asked about persistent speculation that she will run for statewide office in 2006, she smiled and said: "Today I'm running to the Ways and Means Committee room. That's as far as I've planned."

SMILLEY TOWER'S SECOND DAY: THE SIEGE OF PEACHTREE

Smilley International moved 1,100 employees into its new headquarters Tuesday, and Buckhead traffic noticed. Commuters reported 20-minute delays at the Peachtree-Piedmont intersection as moving trucks lined the road beneath Donohue Tower's windows.

Tuesday's closing prices (publicly traded Donohue affiliates):

Ticker	Company	Close	Change
DFN	Donohue Financial	$185.05	+0.5%
DNRG	Donohue Energy	$96.40	-0.4%
DPHR	Donohue Pharmaceuticals	$142.90	+0.6%
DTEC	Donohue Technologies	$61.90	+0.7%

LIVING · "BEHIND THE GATES" by Bernadette Sinclair

Darlings, tonight is THE night.

The twenty-third birthday of Marc-Anthony Bullock at Belle Rive is the invitation of the winter, and I'm told the list has crossed 320. There will be a three-tier pound cake baked by the Bullock family's legendary housekeeper (a secret recipe older than the Voting Rights Act), a performance by the platinum-selling baby sister, and an ice sculpture I have been told, on excellent authority, resembles "a duck that won the lottery."

The question every hostess in Buckhead is asking: Will a Smilley walk through the Crown Gate?

Sources confirm that an engraved invitation, with a personal handwritten note from Simone Donohue herself, was delivered to Smilley Tower on Tuesday morning. Sources also confirm that Lucius Smilley instructed that it be burned.

Sources do not confirm that it was.

Spotted: At Bones, Tuesday at dinnertime, the birthday boy himself, sharing a wedge salad in a corner booth with a certain Channel 8 reporter, the very one who broke the Piedmont Park story the night before. Darling, I'm not saying it's a conflict of interest. I'm saying it's a very small booth.

Piedmont Park victim identified; APD won't discuss 'Blackwater' coin

By Celeste Vaughn

Atlanta police have identified the man found dead in Piedmont Park Monday night as Lamar Whitlock, 43. WBKG first reported that Whitlock was found holding a black onyx coin linked to the Blackwater Syndicate. At Tuesday's briefing, Deputy Chief Warren Hughes neither confirmed nor denied the report.

WBKG has learned that a black funeral wreath was delivered Tuesday evening to a well-known West End restaurant a few blocks from Merriweather & Sons. Its meaning is unclear.

THE PARTY OF THE WINTER IS TOMORROW, AND THE TEA IS ALREADY HOT

CrestWatchers, pull up a chair.

The Invitation. Yes, it's true: a certain 94-year-old matriarch sent a courtesy invitation across the ravine to the new neighbors. With a handwritten note. "Welcome, neighbor." I have never loved a woman more.

The Heiress. Her daddy said burn it. Our sources at the Tower say the envelope went into a desk drawer, not a shredder. Make of that what you will. ;)

The Pearls. A little bird in a certain Creole-yellow house tells me a very old, very dark jewelry case came up from the vault tonight. Longtime Summit watchers know what that means. If you see black pearls at Belle Rive tomorrow, ladies, it's war.

Blind item: Which Summit CEO left her 87th-floor office at 8:31 PM and made it home to the bluff in eleven minutes? That's a twenty-minute drive, CrestWatchers. Somebody was in a HURRY to have a conversation.

Blind item #2: Which ambitious nephew hand-delivered a stack of documents THREE DAYS before the deadline? Teacher's pet, or something else?

Current mood: frustrated

Current music: Mary J. Blige, "Not Gon' Cry"

Not about Dee tonight. Sorry, y'all. I need to vent somewhere and this is the only place I have.

I got served today. At WORK. In front of my broker and a client. A man walked into the office and said my name and handed me papers, and for one second I thought it was about Dee. That somebody found something.

It wasn't. It was my daughter's grandmother asking a judge for visitation.

I love my baby's father's family. I do. I just didn't want anybody else to have a piece of her yet, you know? Dee's gone. Mama's barely here. Lyric is the one thing I have that's all the way mine.

Her father asked me how I was doing today. First time in three years. In a parking deck. I yelled at him. I'm not sorry. I'm a little sorry.

Lyric told him my outside voice is "the loudest voice in Georgia." She's not wrong.

Thursday I'm going to see the new DA about Dee. Wish me luck.

Started by WestEndWill — 01/04/2005 8:05 PM

WestEndWill: they ID'd the dude. lamar whitlock. he worked for MERRIWEATHER. the funeral home. y'all know what that means

Mama_Deese_Biggest_Fan: somebody delivered a BLACK funeral wreath to Mama Dee's tonight. in the middle of dinner. my cousin was there eating. she said the whole restaurant went quiet. the ribbon said something about a truce

SouthsideSaint_78: a TRUCE?? so it's true, there was a deal last summer

HonestAbe_ATL: you're all describing organized crime like it's a sports rivalry

Mama_Deese_Biggest_Fan: HonestAbe_ATL, it IS a sports rivalry. the stakes are just higher

ConspiracyKeith: i said it yesterday and i'll say it again. somebody WANTS a war. a merriweather man, a blackwater coin, in a park, on the day the new chief made her speech? that's not a crime. that's a chess move.

ATLien_4Life: keith been wrong about everything since 1999 but he might be right about this one

WestEndWill: if the summer comes back, i'm moving to Decatur

Subject: Jasmine Olson for GOVERNOR in '06??

Posted by FultonDem_Daryl — 1/4/05 3:22 PM

FultonDem_Daryl: 10 terms. Ways and Means. Donohue money. She was cagey on TV today but you know she's thinking about it.

GA_Taxpayer1952: Another Donohue in charge of something. First the police, now the whole state.

CobbCountyCarol: She's actually good on education. My sister's school got a grant through her office.

GA_Taxpayer1952: Through her office or through her FATHER'S office?

FultonDem_Daryl: Is there a difference in Georgia?
